THE NEEDHAM
Musical Cabinet

PRICE, $60. DESCRIPTIVE CIRCULARS FREE.

THIS new and wonderful Instrument enables any one, whether understanding music or not, to play any desired melody or harmony, sacred or secular, from the most plaintive dirge to the most lively dance music. It possesses a mechanism of marvelous simplicity, requiring but the intelligence of a child to manipulate, yet capable of reproducing, without limitation, the musical compositions of the PAST, PRESENT and FUTURE. The execution is faultless, strict in melody, harmony and rhythm, and the instrument is eminently adapted for Sunday Schools, prayer and revival meetings, home devotional exercises, and in all cases where good, correct music is required, and no musician is at hand to perform. Success in Curing Consumption.

Almost every one can name in the circle of his acquaintance one or two instances where persons have been cured of consumption, and most doctors can plume themselves on a few such cases as illustrating their own successful practice of the healing art. But all are willing to admit that recoveries are rare when the disease is thoroughly developed. In the last number of the Medical Record, however, a physician of New York gives details of his method of treatment of this disease in extreme cases, with the happy result of curing from 60 to 75 per cent. The methods and the theory of the cure are in some respects quite new; they are published—as is the noble custom of the medical profession—so that other doctors may try and test them; and the benefit, whatever it may be, is open to all. Six cases are described; all had been treated by good physicians according to customary methods. At least half of the patients had vainly tried a residence in the West and South. Their lungs were deeply diseased. They were steadily growing worse, and seem to have been advised that their malady had become serious. Under the new treatment four of these patients recovered, and are again actively engaged in their business pursuits. One, whose case was greatly complicated by other diseases, after making good progress toward recovery, suffered fresh misfortune from a pleuritic abscess breaking into his lungs, but has since begun to regain health. One that had been supposed to present the most favorable case of the six when first presented for treatment, failed afterward to gain strength, and died gently while asleep. The time taken for recovery under the new treatment seems to vary from six months to a year, but relief from the more distressing symptoms was obtained in all cases in a much shorter period.—The theory of cure is to clear the lungs by a mechanical treatment, chiefly of manipulating the muscles of the throat so as to cause more forcible breathing; second, to establish perfect digestion; third, to promote a process of healing the tubercles, so that they shall become calcified or chalky masses; fourth, to compel the patients to take plenty of fresh air, sunlight and out door exercise. To secure perfect digestion, a special diet is ordered in each case, and the food is changed as the power of assimilating it improves; that part of the treatment was fully successful in each of the six instances described. To promote the calcifying of the tubercles, the salts of lime, which are found in most vegetable and animal life, must be supplied in a soluble condition; the theory is, that too much heat in ordinary cooking destroys the natural combination of these salts with albumen, and renders them insoluble to a weak digestion. In regard to out door exercise, this is regarded as so important that the patients must go out in rain, snow, dampness or even night air or dew; and in the twenty years of the doctor's practice, he knows of no instance of catching cold from such exposure. Only strong head winds and extreme hot weather, need be guarded against. The patients sleep with the windows open, summer and winter.

The editor of Vanity Fair (London) speaks for others of the profession as well as himself, in saying: "I am daily assailed by friends who, either on their own account, or the account of somebody else, implore me in the name of friendship, to 'keep' such and such a thing 'out of the paper'. Being of an amiable disposition, I am always inclined to indulge them; but it really must have a limit, for if it goes on I shall either have to present my readers with a handsome blank page, or else I must take the advice once given to an editor, to have no friends and live in a cellar."

The late Ben Wade said "that a man who always had only three shining qualities about him, and they the three diamond studs in his shirt front, was sure to be found possessing only one idea in his head, and that, vanity." A correspondent well posted writes that in England to day diamonds are seldom, if ever, worn by gentlemen. They are cheap enough, and plenty of men wear them; but not gentlemen.

Two French ladies were looking at the pictures in the Paris Salon. "So I hear," said one, "a celebrated painter has finished a picture for you." "Yes; he has graciously consented to paint the portrait of my husband for my drawing room." "Indeed!" said the first speaker, "Well, for a room like that I think I should have chosen a gayer subject."

If the marriage service could only be so modified and amended as to include the lighting of the morning fires among the other obligations assumed by the bride, there wouldn't be so many old bachelors jabbing their fingers with darning needles and shivering around in the cold.

Life in Greenland.

Evening is the liveliest time in the Greenland hut. Then the bright lamps are burning, the kettles and pots (made of soapstone) all steaming and boiling over each lamp, the women busily chatting at their work, and half-naked children running about on the warm reindeer skins on the ledge behind them. This is the scene going on before us. The seal-hunter has just arrived home from after his day's toil on the sea, and while he is hanging up his lines, his waterproof gloves, and other paraphernalia, a piece of skin is drawn forth from beneath the ledge and spread before him. Its contents—the small dried fish "augmagsat" or capeling—he eats in silence, weary as he is. This is only a preliminary meal, an appetizing pastime, while the more substantial things over the lamp are getting ready—and it does not take long to broil seal flesh. After the fish he takes a draught from the water pail behind the door. The skin curtain of the lodge, hiding the mysteries of the lower regions, is once more drawn aside and the skin with the remnants disappeared behind it, to join a host of the most heterogeneous articles. A good deal of talking in the relating line, or in the chatting, prattling, merrymaking style, is generally going on. What I remember most distinctly from my happy visits and stays in the Greenland huts, are the stories and descriptions of the men relative to their sea adventures, accompanied by the most animated gestures, showing how the seal had first appeared, and then again dived down on his approaching it; how he (the hunter) in his turn had lingered behind till the animal, made incautious by ensuing silence, again rose to the surface; and now the hunter, leaning back with a graceful movement, shows how he resolutely swept across a long surge, and came within reach of his mark, took aim, and threw his harpoon and bladder float; how the wounded animal dived and again came to the surface, and so forth. In fact, he paints the scene with the most lively colors, and we all listened with the most wrapt attention. My brother, who had a lively comprehension and a great talent for mimicry, had in after years in Denmark, often to act the part of the seal hunter, and it strikes me that I had myself a part in a play representing an unsuccessful whale hunt. Certainly, we had many an hour of amusement in the Greenland cottages. No doubt we were very unpretending and easy to please in the extreme; but why criticise the means when the result is happiness? And happy we undoubtedly were, alike in the dark frosty days, with the moon shining down upon us at noontime, and in the calm, delightful summertime, with its bright, sunlit nights. —The Field.

A Libby's Corner, Vt. man stole a fat rooster from his neighbor's barn the other night and had it cooked for next day's dinner but while the family were seated around the table, eager to discuss the fowl, the owner rushed in, seized the platter, with the smoking bird upon it, and carried it home to his own table, much to the surprise of the expectant family of the thief.

Major Pitcairn, British officer at Concord and Lexington, was a joker—mayhap a saucy one. Among the relics of the old Christ Church at Boston is an ancient singing-book, on the fly-leaf of which is written:—"Major Pitcairn's compliments to the head singer, with the request that she will not sing quite so loudly, as it is impossible for him to sleep."

The seventh article in the will of a late citizen of New Orleans reads: "Whereas it seems that my son John seems inclined to play poker, which is a dangerous game to tinker with, unless you know what you are doing; therefore I leave my son John $10,000, that he may go to Halifax, N. C., and learn how to play the game."

Spurgeon shuts himself up on Saturdays, and one Saturday a man called and insisted on seeing him. "Tell him," said the visitor to his servant, "that a servant of the Lord wishes to see him." The message was delivered, and the following answer was returned: "Tell him that I am engaged with his Master."

John Ericsson, the inventor, though seventy five years old, is wonderfully strong and hearty. He never smokes, drinks only water, and always sleeps with his window open.

The girl of the period wears a cutaway swallow-tailed jacket, and leads an English pug with a silver chain and a blue ribbon.

Everything is embroiderd in Paris at present—shoes, dresses, gloves, bonnets, corsages, cravats, wraps and trimmings.

SOMETHING TO RING BELLS FOR.—The Rev. Dr. Day, in a recent sermon at Plainfield, N. J., told this simple story: In a town not far distant, a few years since, two Christian young men, brothers, were doing a prosperous business, assisting many noble enterprises, and each living in a comfortable home. A combination of disasters suddenly rendered them insolvent. What did they do? They did not consult the law to see how much of their property might be kept from their creditors, but at once surrendered to them their homes, factories, assets, all; and promised, if possible, the balance should yet be paid to each creditor in full. Resuming business, poor in means, but strong in character, living in cottages in which their noble wives did the house-work, until by economy and industry the last dollar of the old indebtedness was paid with interest. The day on which this was completed, the bells of the churches were rung in honor, and the whole town joined in the expression of grateful joy—a triumph of character such as the bells of any church might celebrate, and any community delight to honor.

MYSTERY OF THE MIND.—The following psychological incident, which was told to me by a gentleman of undoubted veracity, may prove of interest to those of your readers who are studying the occult phases of nervous phenomena. The narrator, a man of fine nervous organization, was taking his afternoon siesta; his daughter, a young lady of seventeen sitting by his side, with her hand in his, and reading. As he passed from the wakeful state into one of semi-slumber, he saw, or seemed to see, appear at the foot of his bed a tall man, with a sorrowful expression upon his face, who, bending down tenderly, lifted up a coffin and disappeared. He was so disturbed by the vision that, after tossing restlessly for a few minutes, he opened his eyes and said, "Daughter, I believe I cannot sleep to-day, and will get up." Looking up from her book, in which she was evidently absorbed, she said, "Papa, this is a strange book that I am reading." "What is it?" said he. "The Life of Marie Antoinette," she replied, and then read from the pages before her a recital of the exact incident that had constituted his dreams.—Louisville Medical News.

EAT APPLES.—Apples, in addition to being a delicious fruit, make a pleasant medicine. A raw, mellow apple is digested in an hour and a half, while boiled cabbage requires five hours. The most healthy dessert that can be placed on the table, is a baked apple. If eaten frequently at breakfast, with coarse bread and butter, without meat or flesh of any kind, it has an admirable effect on the general system, often removing constipation, correcting acidities, and cooling off febrile conditions more effectually than the most approved medicines. If families could be induced to substitute apples, ripe and sound, for pies, cakes and sweetments, with which their children are often stuffed, there would be a diminution in the total sum of doctor's bills, in a single year, sufficient to lay in a stock of this delicious fruit for the whole season's use.

A letter has been received at the Dead Letter Office in Washington, from the postal authorities of Germany, addressed in a child's penmanship to Santa Claus, in the Hartz Mountains, Germany. The German officials did not see the point and the letter was returned to this country with the envelope all written over and stamped with various devices, which indicated that seventeen carriers had attempted unsuccessfully to deliver it. It was mailed from this country a few weeks before Christmas, evidently by a child.

The Massachusetts State Board of Health issues a circular descriptive of hydrophobia. The disease is divided into three stages—the first is marked by restlessness, the second by spasms and frothing, and the third by paralysis.—An attack of the disease, it says, may be avoided in a vast majority of cases, after a person has been bitten by a rabid animal, by at once washing and cauterizing the wounds with a white-hot iron or nitrate of silver.

Scott Russell asserts that it has been found commercially advantageous to build large steamers without sails. They make four times as many voyages, and pay much better than those which use sails.

"Go out, young man, she's not here," said a Tuskegee preacher last Sunday, in the midst of his sermon, to a youth, whom he saw standing hesitating in the doorway.

VOTE RIGHT.

The election of delegates to the Constitutional Convention will take place on Wednesday next—the 19th—and it bids fair to be the most mixed affair that has ever taken place in this State. There are innumerable tickets in the field, Non-partisan, Republican, Democratic, Workingmens', Kearney and anti Kearney, National Labor, and so on to the end of the Chapter. That the non-partisan tickets throughout the State are composed of the most talented and ablest men of California there can be no question; and it must be admitted that the non partisan ticket for delegates at large contains the names of the most distinguished men of our State, but it cannot be denied that in making up that ticket a great mistake was made in giving so much prominence to the legal profession, but this might be overlooked in a great measure had the several county conventions not have gone to the same exreme and selected lawyers.

It is necessary that that honorable profession should be ably represented in that important assembly, but it is not requisite that it should have a great majority. This mistake will undoubtedly be the means of electing many inferior men to the Convention, as we notice in our exchanges that anti lawyer meetings have been held in connection with this canvass. But the nominees are before the people, and on Wednesday, when the tickets are circulated, the voters should scan them carefully, and try to do his duty to himself, his neighbor, and the State and Nation, by casting his ballot for the very best men whether they are on the non partisan, Republican, or Democratic, or any other ticket. It is going to be a difficult matter, to make out a ticket without leaving off some good man the voter would like to support, as there are good men on all the tickets, but it will be perfectly safe, and every voter having the interest of the State at heart will scratch the name of any man known to be a follower of the notorious agitator, Kearney. Had the Workingmens' Party been organized by the respectable workingmen of the State it would have been the Party of California and would have enlisted the sympathies of all classes.

Repealing the Bankrupt Law.

Following is the text of the above bill, as it finally passed Congress: Be it enacted, etc., That the Bankrupt law approved March 2, 1867, title 61, Revised Statutes, and an act entitled, "An act to amend and supplement an act entitled an act to establish a uniform system of bankruptcy throughout the United States, approved March 2, 1867, and for other purposes, approved June 22, 1874," and all acts in amendment or supplementary thereto, or in explanation thereof, be, and the same are hereby repealed.

Provided, however, that such repeal shall in no manner invalidate or affect any case, in bankruptcy, instituted and pending in any court prior to the day when this act shall take effect; but as to all such pending cases, and all future proceedings therein, and in respect of all pains, penalties and forfeitures which shall have been incurred under any of said acts prior to the day when this act takes effect, or which may be thereafter incurred under any of those provisions of any of said acts which for the purposes named in this act are kept in force, and all penal actions and criminal proceedings for a violation of any of said acts, whether then pending or thereafter instituted, and in respect of all rights of debtors and creditors (except the right of commencing original proceedings in bankruptcy), and all rights of and suits by or against assignees under all of said acts in any matter or case, in which shall have arisen prior to the day when this act takes effect (which shall be on the 1st day of September, 1878), or in any matter or case which shall arise after this act takes effect in respect of any matter of bankruptcy authorized by this act to be proceeded with after such last-named day, the acts hereby repealed shall continue in full force and effect until the same shall be fully disposed of, in the same manner as if said acts had not been repealed.

The resignation of Register McFarland has been received at Washington, but his successor has not yet been appointed. The parties mentioned in connection with the position are Hon. Thos. Fraser, of El Dorado, George W. Farr, now Chief Clerk in the office, and P. J. Hopper, of Sacramento. Mr. Farr has had much experience in that line of business, is a faithful officer, and is entitled to a promotion on his merits, but not on account of his being a resident of Sacramento—a Washington dispatch intimating that Fraser, not being a resident of Sacramento would be barred out. It is a little singular that none but a Sacramentan is eligible. Judge McFarland was a Nevada county man; and R. M. Briggs, late Register of the Independence Land Office, was an Amador man, and that county is not in his land district. Any competent man is eligible, whether he lives in the district or not. Sacramentans are an energetic people but they should not attempt to monopolise too much.

Our Oregon neighbors are being blessed with an influx of Chinese. Two vessels arrived at Portland on Monday—one with 300 and the other with 280.

Mrs. Laura De Force Gordon has announced herself as an independent candidate for delegate to the Constitutional Convention from San Joaquin county. She will be elected, of course.

SELECT LIST OF

LOCAL NEWSPAPERS

Many persons suppose this list to be composed of CHEAP, low-priced newspapers. The fact is quite otherwise. The Catalogue states exactly what the papers are. When the name of a paper is printed in FULL FACE TYPE it is in every instance the best paper in the place. When printed in CAPITALS it is the ONLY paper in the place. When printed in roman letters it is neither the best nor the only paper, but is usually a very good one, notwithstanding. The list gives the population of every town and the circulation of every paper. IT IS NOT A CO-OPERATIVE LIST. IT IS NOT A CHEAP LIST. At the foot of the catalogue for each State the important towns which are not covered by the list are enumerated. IT IS AN HONEST LIST. The rates charged for advertising are rarely one-fifth the publishers' schedule. The price for one inch four weeks in the entire list is $635. The regular rates of the papers for the same space and time are $3,136 35. The list includes 970 newspapers, of which 163 are issued DAILY and 807 WEEKLY. They are located in 825 different cities and towns, of which 22 are State Capitals, 328 places of over 5,000 population, and 444 County seats LISTS SENT ON APPLICATION. MIDDLE-AGED MEN.

There are many at the age of thirty to sixty who are troubled with the frequent evacuation of the bladder, often accompanied by a slight smarting or burning sensation, and a weakening of the system in a manner the patient can not account for. On examining the urinary deposits a ropy sediment will often be found and sometimes small particles of albumen will appear, or the color will be of a thin milkish hue, again changing to a dark and turbid appearance. There are many men who die of this difficulty ignorant of the cause which is the second stage of seminal weakness. Dr. S. will guarantee a perfect cure in all such cases, and a healthy restoration of the genito-urinary organs.

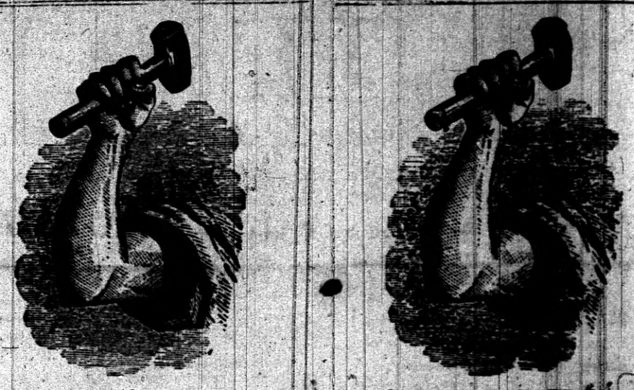
MECHANICS' STORE.



NOTICE TO DEALERS

in General Merchandise.

Our Wholesale Establishment

OFFERS TO RETAIL DEALERS THE FOLLOWING LINES OF GOODS,

Dry Goods, Clothing, Boots and Shoes, Hats, Caps, Yankee Notions, Fancy Goods, Furnishing Goods, Trunks and Valises.

We claim to offer the following advantages to dealers: Buying our goods from manufacturers and jobbers East, in very large quantities, we obtain the closest prices, and, as our expenses will be much lower in Sacramento than for a similar business in San Francisco we shall be enabled to UNDERSELL ALL COMPETITORS.

Our terms will be strictly net cash, and no discount.

No goods will be permitted to leave our house unless the full amount has been paid for under any circumstances.

We shall mark all our goods in plain figures and sell them at one price.

We will never deviate from our marked price, no matter how large the order will be. This will enable the poorest judge of goods to obtain as much for the money as the closest and sharpest buyer.

We shall sell goods wholesale to Dealers and Peddlers only. Orders for customers will be filled from our retail department only.

☞ We shall fill orders and answer all communications promptly to any part of California, Nevada, Oregon, Utah, Idaho, Arizona, Colorado and Montana. Address all letters,

[WHOLESALE DEPARTMENT] WEINSTOCK & LUBIN, Sacramento, Cal.

IN OPENING OUT OUR WHOLESALE DEPARTMENT,

WE ARE NOW ENABLED TO OFFER

EXTRA INDUCEMENT

IN THE WAY OF PRICES,

In Our Retail Stores,

FOR THE REASON THAT,

As we are now buying for our Wholesale Department, we buy in original cases and bales, thus obtaining large trade discounts, which will enable us to

SELL GOODS LOWER THAN ANY OTHER HOUSE

ON THE PACIFIC COAST.

One item alone, our stores, Nos. 98, 100, 102, 104 and 106 K street, would cost at least $21,000 a year for rent in San Francisco. We have no such expenses, as WE OWN OUR STORE PROPERTY.

WE ARE PREPARED TO OFFER UNUSUAL INDUCEMENTS IN

Dry Goods, Boys' Clothing, Summer Goods, Boots, Shoes and Hats.

We are now importing our Laces, Linens, and Embroideries from manufacturers' agents direct and we shall in all cases GIVE FULL VALUE FOR THE MONEY, not more to those who are no judges.

As our prices are marked plainly on every article in the house, and we sell at one price only, it is strictly against the rules of our house to permit any of our employees to misrepresent any article offered for sale. Cotton is not sold for Union Linen, and Cotton Linen for pure linen; nor Satinet sold for Cassimere.

Any one in our employ who misrepresents any article is at once discharged, as we have found out by experience, that Principle, Buy-your-Policy are all in favor of

THE HOUSE THAT DEALS HONORABLY TOWARDS ALL.

☞ We shall continue, as heretofore, to fill all orders for any part of the Pacific coast, and persons in the interior can rest assured that their orders will receive prompt and careful attention.

☞ By our system of doing business, a person living hundreds of miles away can obtain as much for their money as one who applies personally to our store. All we want is a clear description of goods wanted, description of colors, sizes and proper address.

☞ We fill an order for twenty-five cents worth of goods with as much care as one for hundreds of dollars. Price List and Samples sent (free) to any part of the Pacific coast.

The Game of Thirty-one to 7.

From the "Player's Manual."

PART I.

He played a good game, and had luck to support it—
And those that he beat were not slow to report it.
His fame was so great, in some parts of our county,
The defeated had thought of offering a bounty
For any new David, who for fame, or for boo,
At Euchre would slay this modern Goliar.—
(If I've spelled his name wrong, I'll take it back,
But that is the way it is spelled in my pack).
One day on a ride, to see whom we could rob
Of pleasure, we drove to the Palace of "Bob."
Says Bob to this Ogre, "I hear you beat all
At Euchre! I think I will give you a call;
Forty years have I waited (he didn't look twenty!)
For just such a chap, but they're not very plenty."
"Come down then," says Cy, "I will amuse you to-night,
And show you what people report is all right."
Well, he came, for eight miles, on the crookedest road
To be found about here, and not very broad,
His love for the game was thus demon-strated,
For he stood a good chance to be soundly berated.
We sat down to our work at a quarter to eight,
And played—well, what some folks would call pretty late—
Considering, at least, it was Saturday night;
But on Sunday's small hours we did not trespass quite.—
The result, not exactly what Cy had expected,
Did not cast him down, or make him dejected.
His appetite seemed to be whetted the more
For another good chance to pay off the score—
"Fifteen for Bob," and "ten games for Cy,"
That never will do—once more we must try—
Now, what shall we do?" "Come up Tuesday," says Bob,
"And I'll fix things so you'll get your fill to the mark."
Well, Tuesday it is! the Professor and JACK
Will come up with me too! and we'll bring a fresh pack;
For we've all played together, and will have the same crew,
And you'll see what you've done here again you can't do."
Well, on Tuesday, we went and commenced about ten.
And fought till near noon-time, and "called a halt," then.
We waited for lunch, which Bob had got ready.
Set our two hours fight, so fierce and so steady,
Together with fresh mountain air,
Gave us appetites such as don't grow everywhere.
The account we had footed—you know "figures won't lie,"
But it looked just the same as the other for Cy
Lunch over, and at it again we all went.
To redeem their misfortune our opponents bent
Their knowledge, and cunning—whatever device
Would bring them victory—for the any price.
Fairly down to the tube, when Cy from his jacket
Drew forth, what, to us, seemed an ominous packet.
The new cards we enjoyed with slipped smoothly and well;
But their record 'gainst Cy did most fearfully tell.
He brought the old pack—an acquaintance of his,
Which, when he brought forth, he "always sacqut tis."
We thought their misfortune to change in the game,
And he shuffled and dealt, but they run just the same;
The best of that pack didn't stick to them more
Than six ounce, and there was no change in the score.
This puzzled still more the Professor and Cy—
So beat us, they some other method must try,
So, one after the other, they rose with great care,
And each very quietly walked round his chair,
And sat down so solemn, that one would have thought
Such a weird incantation a change must have wrought.
The Professor he pondered: "What can be the reason
We're beaten much worse than before the whole season?
I don't think these chaps play so much better game
Than those we have played with, (and Cy thought the same)
And still that they're beating us there's no denying."
But we kept on playing, nor thought of replying.
They tried all the ways they could think in the game
To beat us—but we lengthened our score all the same.
They called in the SCORER, placed him in the chair
The Professor had played in so long and so fair.
The Professor suggested he might be the Jonah:
But alas, the first game showed "Arno!" was a "goner.
No change in the current, or run of the luck:
But about five o'clock, when their "Colors were struck,"
And they gave up their Euchre, and sat down to dinner,
'Twas thirteen to thirteen, and Bob was the winner.

PART II.

We sat down to dinner, I said in my last.
But few ever sat down to such a repast,
And we ate as if each had escaped from a fast.
'Twas no Barmecide feast—there were dishes galore,
And each one had something—and others had more.
There was soup in which oysters went to the bottom—
The Squire went for 'em, and I tell you I got 'em.
There were crackers and butter, and sauces, and "sich things"
That a fellow like Bob to foe and friend brings.
And some one went fishing, but I don't know who,
But I felt pretty sure it was none of "our crew;"
But whoever it was, they brought us, don't smile,
Some small fish the Frenchmen had just "billed in Ile."
But the best of the feast came last, as we're used to,
No flapping or crowing any more from that rooster.
His age—well, that wasn't under discussion:
Put it much antedated the Turk and Russian.
The leg that Bob brought, I would amuse you to see,
The length or the strength of the spur don't ask me.
Like his age and his size, that too had no Peer,
'Twas larger and harder than the horn of a steer.
I think that fowl was the identical cock
Whose crowing gave long ago such a great shock
To Peter, who stood up so straight to deny
His Master, when this rooster crowed outside:
"You lie!"
Though he may have been tough when out on a bender,
When he came to our notice he'd got mighty tender:
For Bob, who is great at a roast or a stew,
Did this mighty old warrior up safe in ragout.
He ought to have been tender, for no one knows when
He went into the pot, and was boiling since then.
He was flanked with potatoes and covered with gravy,
As the sons of the globe rode Uncle Sam's nags.
But this was a game the Professor and Cy
Could each hold "lone hands" at, and beat Bob and I.
How'er they fared in the famed Euchre bout,
They felt sure at home here, and just "laid us out."
Then there was the Squire, at head of the table,
Helping this one and that, as long as he was able,
Presiding with dignity, meet for the office,
But somehow forgot, I suppose, to say grace.
The Squire presided 'cause Bob was creator
Of this bountiful feast, and, also, the waiter.
That's the man we kept busy—we kept his "pot boiling.
I thought that next day his joints would need mending.

This wasn't a case that we read of in books
Where "God sends us food, and the Devil sends cooks."
Piequet's "Patron Saint" wasn't known in this case;
Indeed, I don't think he'd ever been in the place.
But even a feast like this comes to an end;
But when there's another, I pray you will send,
Among invitations, the big card of the pack
To your most sincerely, "EUCHREST JACK."

HONESTY.—A public officer who honestly watches and guards the interests imposed upon him is worthy of commendation, and deserves the respect and support of the people. But when he allows a warped prejudice, malice and selfishness and meanness to govern his actions, he merits the contempt of every honest man. During the publication of the CHRONICLE we have faithfully lived up to our contracts with the county authorities, and, with one exception, our relations have been friendly until now. In 1865 we were placed in the same position as we find ourselves to-day. Under a quibble the Board of Supervisors rejected our bill for advertising election proclamation—given to us under seal of County Clerk. That attempt to swindle us out of our just dues was instigated by spite. Having recourse to Justice Court we obtained judgment; an appeal, however, to the County Court, presided over by old prejudice himself, reversed it. After considering the merits of the claim, the Legislature of 1866 67 passed a bill for its payment, but it was pocketed by Governor Haight, on the last day of the session, through gross misrepresentation of facts. Again it went to the Governor, the Legislature of 1869 70 having passed the bill, and he signed it, and we were paid a just debt. After the Board of Supervisors had awarded us the county advertising, on proposals solicited by an advertisement inserted in this journal by order of the County Clerk, and allowed the first quarter's payment, it is not creditable for a majority of the Board to allow itself to be bulldosed, and bow before a figure-head that graces the District Attorney's office. We doubt the intelligence of men who act upon the advice from a source that would disgrace a tomb's lawyer. With a ponderous stack of authorities before him, this embryo Daniel Webster amazed the unsophisticated majority of the Board by his profound researches, and we suspect that his eloquence precipitated the Board in its undue haste to satisfy itself by voting to ignore our contract, by and with the advice and consent of its learned attorney. We have not the space this week to show up the inconsistencies of some of our officials.

Rev. Mr. Hill has been lecturing at Hollister against Free Masonry and Odd Fellowship, professing to expose the work of the degrees in those societies. On his return from the lecture room, Monday night in company with a friend, an effort was made by unknown parties to chastise him, when he was successfully defended by his companion.

There died in Berlin last April, a gentleman named Bersig, the greatest manufacturer of locomotives in Europe. His father began with a capital of $7,500, lent him by a Berlin tradesman, and the son left $15,600,000. Since 1837, the firm has turned out over 3,500 locomotives. They employ over ten thousand men.

The May Musical Festival recently held at San Francisco was a financial failure. It run behind some $10,000.—The managers were served just right for not selling their tickets at popular prices. Two dollars to hear a little music is a little too steep, and when a manager attempts such an extortion the public should stay away from the entertainment.

NASBY.

Mr. Nasby Hasn't Time to Express His Views, as He is Engaged in Pushing the Investigation.

WASHINGTON, May 25, 1878.—Don't ask me to write or to do anything uv the sort. I hev other fish to fry, and this time I hev a catch. I am assistin in investigatin the frauds, and there are enuff uv em to upseet the youserper Hayes and put in his place the gilelis patriot, Tilden. The ends of justis will be subserved, and I shel hev my postoffis. The long rane uv impecooniosity at the Corners will be endid, and Bascom will soon be enabled to do a cash biznis. When Tilden is President, Isaker Gavitt is Collector, and I am Postmaster, there will be a change in things.

Halleeloogy.

All the trouble we hev is to keep the fellows away wich we don't want to testify. We hev too many witnesses, for they don't all know wat to swear to. For instance, Deekin Pogram, the blessid old imbecile, wanted to come on here and testify to his giving $200 to arm a company uv Dimocrats in Mississippi to carry that State for Tildin, and it took mity smart figgerin to keep him away.

Tilden hez a reputashen for hevin money, and witnesses are comin here to in swarms. We shel prove that there wuzn't no sich thing ez a fair eleckshun in Floridy and Looisana; that in both them States men took our money and then voted agin us: that our rifle clubs wuz intimidated; and that our repeaters in Looisiana was kept away from the polls by force.

There ain't agoin to be no trouble about it. We hev men here wich will swear to anything, and—in fact, we hev no embarrassment uv swearin material.

I wooden't give a ten cent piece to be inshoored my Post Offis. Justis is at last a-goin to be done! Truth which wuz crushed to earth is risin agin. Tilden and Reform! The old man is comin down handsomely. I love to labor for him for he knows a man's valyoo.

We hev got 'em. We shel investigate jist as fur ez we want to, and that will be in jist enuff States to elect Mr. Tilden. We hev got Mr. Hayes this time. We shel teach the Ablishists that, when a pure man like Samyooel J. Tilden hez nought and paid for an offis, he is goin to git it. We hev swore not to swindled out uv wat wuz ours by purchis. Tilden is a great man. It cost him too much to buy the nomination and the eleckshun not to hev 'em. We are goin to be President. I am arrangin it.

You will hear from me next week. The Corners will be electrified! The country is safe, and Dimocrisy is on the high road to success. Jubilant.

PETROLEUM V. NASBY, Investigator.

It turns out that the story from Tuscarora, Nevada, to the effect that Maraney Hughes who married a person known as Samuel Pollard had discovered the supposed man to be a woman in disguise, is simply an emanation from the fertile brain of the reporter for the local paper of that town. No such case ever happened. This story has been copied and commented on all over the Union, and has "taken in" a great many thousand people.

BRONCHITIS, COUGHS, COLDS AND THROAT DISEASES, if suffered to progress, result in serious pulmonary affections, oftentimes incurable. "Brown's Bronchial Troches" reach directly the seat of the disease, and give almost instant relief.

Virginia City is much excited over a rich strike in the Ophir, making it a bonanza mine—probably the old story.

Cabin fares to Portland by steamers have been reduced to $5 by threatened opposition.

TARRANT'S SELTZER APERIENT.

The Heat of Summer, or a tropical climate causes a depression of vital powers, fosters a bilious tendency, and renders the stomach and bowels apt to become sluggish and disordered. This hurtful influence is nullified by that most refreshing and invigorating of salines,

Tarrant's Seltzer Aperient,

which is emphatically indorsed by physicians and the press.
